

Feramain

Cornering the building with a blood-soaked shotgun. Pebble stones rattle on the ground as Nancy Kulidge stumbles towards the basement to slaughter her last born son. After an hour of bashing open the wooden doorlocks, she was still convinced that someone was still trying to follow her and stop the act.